

From Mass Incarceration of Japanese Americans to the Muslim Ban: Remembrance, and the Continuing Fight For Justice

On the 75th anniversary of Executive Order 9066, which authorized the incarceration of approximately 120,000 persons of Japanese ancestry in the U.S. during WWII, we remember its enduring legacy, and fight back against its modern day parallels. Join us for a screening of the documentary 9066-9/11: America's Concentration Camps Then... and Now? followed by a panel discussion.

Speakers:

Don Tamaki, Partner at Minami Tamaki LLP, Member of Fred Korematsu's coram nobis legal team
