

Consultant, Legal Services Strategy, Management & Business Development
International Rescue Committee, Northern California

As IRC has been expanding our immigration legal services programming in an effort to best serve the community, we have identified a need to take a closer look at our legal services management structure in northern California and have developed this consultancy to help us think through some decisions, working closely with our team of accredited reps and attorneys as well as regional leadership. We would like to engage someone with strong community ties and who will center diversity and inclusivity in this work, who has deep experience in legal service delivery who can help us think through what types of management/ leadership roles and structures we need in the region, who has strong knowledge of the local ecosystems and will understand where IRC fits in (or doesn't fit in), and finally who can advise on funding opportunities as we move forward in this expanded capacity to serve the community.
